Since your interviews here in Washington, operating officials have been conducting an extensive review of our personnel needs in order to determine whether an appropriate opportunity could be located for you. That review has now been concluded and we are indeed sorry to inform you that we have found no way in which we can utilize your background and experience.

We are most appreciative of your interest and the time and effort you spent in coming to Washington to discuss your application, and regret that we cannot take favorable action on your case.

Sincerely,

Signed

E. D. Echols
Director of Personnel
